The screenshot shows the AliExpress checkout process. At the top, there are fields for 'Shipping Address' and 'Payment Methods'. Below these, a product item is listed: 'Shop1103833790 Store' (checked), 'USB Rechargeable Led Bulb Portable Camping Light Bulb Emergency Lighting Flashlight', 'white', and a price of 'US $ 4.98'. A red arrow points from the text 'check whether the funds debited for the goods correspond to the amount indicated on the website' to this price. To the right, a 'Summary' section shows a 'Subtotal' of 'US $4.98', 'Promo codes' (with a dropdown menu for 'Enter code here'), and 'Shipping fee' (labeled as 'Free'). The total amount is 'US $ 4.98'. A large red button labeled 'Pay now' is prominently displayed. Below the summary, a note says 'Upon clicking "Place Order", I confirm I have read and acknowledged all terms and policies.' At the bottom, there's a checkbox for 'AliExpress' and a link to 'AliExpress keeps your information and payment safe'.
